OPA'S 'SECOND COMING' DUE

PAIR FACING FIRST DEGREE MURDER COUNT

Nichols and Murton Charged Today in Knife Slaying of OSR Inmate.

First degree murder charges against Howard Nichols, 20, and Louis Murton, 19, inmates of the Ohio State reformatory who admitted stabbing Janvere Bruck, 18, another OSR prisoner, last Thursday, had been filed in municipal court this morning.

The two youths, whom County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz said admitted planning in advance the attack on Bruck, will probably be arraigned in municipal court tomorrow morning, Court Clerk Paul W. Ritchie said.

Nichols, now held in the county jail, was the only person named by Bruck before he died as his assailant but Nichols implicated Murton and the latter admitted striking a blow, it was reported.

Murton was still being held at OSR this morning but it was expected he would be brought to the county jail for confinement sometime today.

The cutting fray occurred in a supper line-up at the reformatory shortly before 5 p. m. Thursday and Bruck died of severe stab wounds in his abdomen in the institution hospital three hours later.

Bruck, a Cleveland youth, was received at the reformatory as a transfer from the Boys Industrial school at Lancaster last Oct. 24. He had been serving a term for assault to rob.

Nichols, originally from Hardin county, was transferred from BIS Dec. 17, 1942, under a sentence for theft. Murton, a Clevelander and a former inmate of BIS, was received from Cuyahoga county under sentence for breaking and entering.

BOLIVIA QUIET AFTER UPRISING

Liberal Regime Consolidates Hold, Welcomes Return of Political Exiles.

LA PAZ, Bolivia—(INS)—Bolivia prepared to welcome returning political exiles today as the revolution-born provisional government consolidated its hold on the nation.

The liberal regime established by leaders of the rebels who slew President Gualberto Villarroel has already set government machinery in motion by naming Dr. Tomas Gutierrez, now head of the supreme court, as chief of state.

Gutierrez is expected to assume the presidency when he recovers from a current illness.

First of the homecoming political exiles—Jose Antonio Arce, leader of the leftist Revolutionary party—is expected to fly into La Paz from Chile today.

(Santiago dispatches quoted Radio Bolivia at Oruro as saying Indian miners have left their jobs and are marching on Oruro.

(Reporfts from Buenos Aires said revolutionists and police are fighting in Oruro.)

Dr. Nestor Guillen, president of the new Bolivian junta, has declared the leftist government will respect all international agreements entered into by Villarroel, including those framed at San Francisco and Chapultepec.

One of the first moves made by the junta was to restore nationwide freedom of the press.

SET RECORD

31 Eviction Cases Filed in City Court in July.

Number of eviction cases filed in municipal court climbed to 31 today to set an all-time record for the number filed in any one month.

Since rent controls were removed June 30, the number of eviction actions filed has mounted steadily. Already this month the total tops by 10 those filed in May and June.

Some 15 of the cases are scheduled to be heard through Friday of this week.

ON RECOVERY ROAD

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Howard Hughes today was pronounced out of danger and well on the road to recovery from injuries suffered July 7 in the flaming crash of an army experimental photo-reconnaissance plane he was testing alone.

Manufacturers, Retailers, Labor Back Mayor In Plan To Curb Unlimited Fund Raising Campaigns In City

Harassed by an increasing number of appeals to stage fund raising drives in Mansfield and with the certainty of more to come, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and representatives of large contributing groups met last night to organize a Public Appeals Review Board which will scrutinize every public appeal made to Mansfield citizens in the future.

A powerful array of contributing groups lined up solidly behind the mayor's committee. These included the Mansfield Manufacturers club, the Mansfield Retail Merchants association, the Richland county unit of American Federation of Labor and the Richland County Council of CIO. Pledged to support the mayor and these representative groups were the Mansfield News-Journal and other publicizing organizations.

The mayor said this morning: "This review board is set up to protect the individual citizen rather than the large group. It is designed to protect the housewife and the man on the street from solicitation by organizations whose background the ordinary individual has no way of checking."

Vaughn said he was following the pattern a number of American cities that have taken similar action. The review board, he explained, is being set up not at a repressive measure but to aid intelligent and informed giving on the part of generous Mansfielders. It will also be protection against unethical drives and philanthropic organizations that do not come up to standard.

J. H. Gongwer, Mansfield attorney, was named chairman of the group and Vaughn was made secretary-treasurer. Other members of the board are Millard Pryor, Roy Waxler, Clarence Fike, Russell Porch, Ken Woodman, Marion O'Hara and Carl O. Rus-

SEIZE TWENTY IN JERUSALEM AFTER BLAST

Hotel Explosion Takes Toll of 48 Known Dead, 50 Missing.

JERUSALEM —(AP)— A police spokesman announced today the detention of about 20 Jews in connection with the terroristic bombing yesterday of the King David hotel which left 98 persons dead or missing.

The known dead mounted to 48.

Military rescue crews who toiled in the debris of the hotel, the seat of British army headquarters and the secretariat of the Palestine government, reported that 41 bodies had been recovered and seven others located. Fifty persons were unaccounted for.

The police spokesman said that, although most of the party which planted milk cans of explosives wore Arab dress, all the evidence indicated they were young Jews.

A truck and a taxi, both stolen, abandoned by the attackers, were searched for fingerprints.

The Palestine government said the missing included 12 senior British officers of the government secretariat. The names of British victims were being withheld pending notification of their kin.

Palestine civil service workers scheduled a 15-minute memorial of silence at noon today for the workers killed in the blast.

A curfew imposed shortly after the explosion was lifted at 5 a. m., except in the immediate area of the $1,000,000 hotel.

Resentment of both Arab and Jewish communities rose noticeably following publication in the Palestine Post of the names of Arabs and Jews who were killed.

Lt. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, high commissioner of Palestine, was en route here from London, having cut short talks with British officials on the Palestine situation.

Showers Due To Keep Heat Under Control

Scattered showers tonight and tomorrow with little change in temperature was forecast for Ohio today as Mansfield enjoyed the comparative coolness of 76 degrees temperature shortly before noon.

Rain here and there about the state was expected to offset the immediate return of a general heat wave.

An electrical storm in Canton last night caused a power failure and blacked out homes in a wide area. Firemen rescued a family stranded in an automobile in a flooded underpass.

High and low temperatures and rainfall amounts, in inches, respectively, at various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today were:

Akron, 81-60, 1.35; Archbold, 85-57; Cherry Fork, 85-60; Chesapeake, 82-61; Cincinnati 84-62, .01; Cleveland 88-58; Columbus 84-62; Dayton 82-62, .02; East Liverpool 81-56, .53; Findlay 84-58, .15; Hayesville 85-60, .01; Parkersburg, W. Being erected under the GI Housing Bill, the new units will be located north of Millsboro road, just off Marion avenue.

The 52 houses are in addition to the Vetsville project and other units being planned by the Mansfield Housing authority, under city sponsorship.

"We already have six basements dug and one house partially erected," Constance said today. "If we can get enough carpenters, we expect to construct houses at the rate of one every two days."

The houses will be of a panelized, prefabricated construction, with oak floors, linoleum in baths and kitchens, built-in cupboards, and laundry trays in basements.

Twin Cities Wage Fight With Polio

MINNEAPOLIS — (INS) — The twin cities of Minneapolis and St Paul fought infantile paralysis today, with eight deaths reported in Minneapolis since July 1.

The death of 9-year-old Paul Friedmann yesterday brought the Minneapolis death toll since Jan 1 to nine. The total of cases reported this year is 111, with 98 listed since July 1.

STAGE SET FOR 2ND ATOM TEST

Blast to Make Waterspout 3 Miles High, Top Staff Scientist Predicts.

ABOARD USS MT. McKINLEY —(AP)—Good weather was forecast today for Thursday (Wednesday, U. S. time) when the first atomic bomb ever touched off below water subjects 75 ships to man-made pressures heretofore undreamed of on earth.

As an "intertropical front" moved off 100 miles to the south, carrying with it the clouds that have hung heavily over Bikini, scientists made up a pool and guessed how many of those 75 ships will perish in the lagoon.

Associated Press Science Writer Howard Blakeslee reported from the Appalachian that these guesses were not being given out but one scientist said the shock would be 100 times greater than that from the air blast July 1.

The scientists were divided, Blakeslee added, on how much of the bomb's awesome power will go into water and how much into the air.

The guesses ranged from 50 percent of the power entering the water to possibly 90 percent of the total nuclear energy released. If the latter figure proves correct the damage to target ships should be terrific.

Dr. R. A. Sawyer, chief of the scientific staff, said there probably would be no flash of light visible in daylight from the underwater burst, and no goggles would be needed.

Instead, he continued, a dome of water half a mile wide should rise above the explosion. The dome would be pierced by a water spout going up two or three miles high.

DESTROY MILK

Los Angeles Dairymen Pour Out 12,500 Gallons.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — About 12,500 gallons of milk were destroyed yesterday by Los Angeles county dairymen who charged an AFL union had declared it "hot cargo" and refused to handle it.

I large truck toured the streets bearing a sign on each side reading "AFL union says this milk is hot. We are forced to destroy it." At intervals the milk was dumped into the street. Several 25-gallon cans of it were turned over in front of Los Angeles city hall.

Hill Goodhart, chairman of the United dairymen, said 80 per cent of their employes has rejected the AFL Milkers and Milk Drivers Union as bargaining agent. AFL Teamster Union officials could not be reached for comment.

NANKING —(UP)— Two American-built destroyer escorts and six mine-sweepers were stripped for action in the Yangtze river today, ready to defend the Nanking-Shanghai area against what the Nationalist government described as a "ferociously" mounting Communist attack from the north.

SECRETARY OF COMBINE BARES 'GAG' ATTEMPT

Garsson, Fields Urged Her to Keep Testimony 'Hazy,' Claims Witness.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate War Investigating committee demanded today that the War department "discipline" high-ranking army officers in the Garsson munitions case. He specified those shown to have travelled on official military orders during wartime to a gay wedding party for the daughter of a munitions maker.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Red-haired Jean Bates, former secretary in the Washington office of a munitions combine, said today that Joseph Freeman and Henry Garsson had asked her to be "hazy" in testifying before the senate war investigating committee.

She testified that Freeman and Garsson, officials in the combine, had attempted to "play upon my sympathy" when she met their request with a refusal to "perjure myself."

They were particularly anxious, she said, to prevent her from telling the committee, under oath, that she had seen Albert Jacobson, $9,975-a-year war department consultant, in the combine's Washington office.

The conversation with her former employers, she related, took place on July 12—the same day she appeared before an executive session of the committee to tell what she knew about the affairs of the combine.

Calls Her From Party.

She said that Mrs. Freeman had called her away from her brother's birthday party to the Freeman home where she met both Freeman and Garsson.

They asked her first what she had told the committee in private session, she said, and then quickly got to the point of Jacobson.

Judge Samuel Dickstein of the New York supreme court testified that it was possible that he had called the Washington office of the combine, but only on a social matter.

Dickstein said that he had known Murray Garsson since 1931 while the latter was an investi-

Polio Strikes Again; Boy, 7, 2nd Victim

Wild Issues New Warning As Lad's Arm and Leg Are Paralyzed.

A seven-year-old Mansfield boy today had become Richland county's second infantile paralysis victim of 1946, and the first case in the city this year.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said that the boy lives in the northeastern section of Mansfield. His right arm and right leg are paralyzed, the doctor said.

The attack followed by two weeks that of a 12-year-old Shelby-Plymouth district girl. The girl was infected with the paralysis germ shortly after a tonsil operation.

DISEASE STRIKES WITHOUT WARNING

Dr. Wild said the case of the Mansfield boy is being investigated in an effort to determine where and how he contracted the disease. He was taken ill suddenly yesterday and there were none of the usual advanced symptoms, the commissioner said.

Last year there were two paralysis cases in both the county and city health districts. During the previous four years, however, there was only one case in the city and none in the county.

Dr. Wild again warned that summer months are infantile paralysis months and again urged care in eating, drinking and swimming.

Don't eat food or drink water unless you know it's pure and by all means stay away from swimming places which you have reason to believe aren't clean," the doctor said.

He also again recommended that tonsil operations be postponed during the summer months. He said that although it has not yet been proven, some medical authorities believe that there is some connection between summer-month tonsilectomies and infantile paralysis attacks.

VOTE NEAR ON TERMINAL PAY

Bill's Sponsor Predicts OK By Senate Today; Ball Flays Measure.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The senate drove toward a vote today on the $3,000,000,000 GI Terminal Leave Pay bill, described by Sen. Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn., as "just a bonus in disguise."

Under the measure backed by President Truman, discharged servicemen would receive five-year federal bonds carrying 2½ per cent interest in payment for furloughs they didn't get.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, D., Col., sponsor of the bill, told reporters it would wipe out "favoritism" shown discharged officers who have received cash payments. He predicted the bill would be passed by the senate today.

Ball offered amendments that would force deduction of mustering out pay already granted enlisted men, and bring World War I veterans under the bill.

"If we make this retroactive, we might as well make it really retroactive he said.

The bill was drafted as a substitue for house-approved legislation which would grant immediate cash payments. It was written by war, navy and treasury department officials in cooperation with the budget bureau which had warned that the house measure was not in accord with Mr Truman's anti-inflation program.

LEADERS SEEK PRICE REBIRTH BY NIGHTFALL

Capitol Hill Certain Truman Will Sign House-Senate Compromise Measure.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — OPA, dead for 23 days, may be born again before midnight.

Administration leaders drove hard to get the house and senate okays that would put the compromise legislation on President Truman's desk by nightfall. The president's signature then could restore trimmed down price controls and full rent authority immediately.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee, a leader of the administration's bitter OPA battle, told reporters "we hope to have price control again by midnight."

Capitol Hill felt certain Mr. Truman would sign the measure even though (1) he vetoed the first congressional attempt to trim OPA's powers and (2) the new compromise bans price ceilings on major foods for at least 30 days.

Faces Problems.

If OPA is reborn, the agency must determine immediately at what levels prices are to be enforced pending full computation of the new and in many cases higher prices called for under the bill. These need not be announced for 30 days.

Showdown votes were set today, first in the house and then in the senate.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) announced he would support the compromise. It was his pricing amendment in the vetoed bill that provoked the sharpest presidential criticism of that measure. The pricing formula later was modified.

Some debate appeared likely in the house.

Reaches Compromise.

The conference committee, after six days of wrangling, finally okayed the compromise yesterday. It gives OPA a one year lease on life under rules requiring higher prices for many manufactured items and banning ceilings on meat, poultry, milk, eggs, cheese, grains and other basic foods before August 20—if at all.

A three-man control board would be created to determine by that date whether the price lid should be clamped back on those foods.

The measure provides for restoration of controls immediately on manufactured goods and foods not specifically exempt.

Authority to control residential rent is renewed in full. The OPA

'JUST FAIR'

Condition of Crashed Flier at Ashland Unchanged.

ASHLAND—Condition of Walter G. Bachmann, who crashed the plane he was piloting into a tree one mile west of here Sunday, was reported to be still "just fair" by Samaritan hospital officials this morning.

Bachmann, who sustained a broken arm and leg and probable internal injuries in the accident, had attempted a loop when the plane smashed into the tree, witnesses said.

The plane, an army surplus plane owned by the Ashland airport, was completely demolished in the crash. CAA officials were reportedly investigating the accident today.

Shades of the Sky Show! That 82-Ton B-29 Superfortress Has Blown a Fuse

Shades of the airport dedication-sky show! The 82-ton B-19 has blown a fuse!

That red-tailed flying monster today is grounded at Mansfield's airport until electrical specialists—bearing the necessary fuses—can be flown in from Wright field.

Only one of the more than 200 sky show planes still at the airport ,the one-time world's largest airplane was "resting quietly" on a taxi-strip today awaiting the arrival of Wright field "doctors."

A B-29 Superfort is to come in sometime today with the electricians and fuses so that the giant "flying laboratory" can return to Wright field.

Meanwhile, the United Airlines Mainliner, only one of the scores of display ships to be damaged during the dedication, has been repaired and last night returned to Cleveland.

Yesterday, too, the "stunting" B-29 and it's "buddy" fighters, the Mustangs, took off for Texas.

Left are the B-19 and still-clean-up crews as the only visible reminders of two-days of sky thrills not soon to be forgotten by the some 95,000 spectators who witnessed the show.

MISS MARIANNE JACKSON

Your Figure, Madame

—By Ida Jean Kain

It can happen. Just when you get the knack of dodging calories and have made a noticeable dent in the too solid flesh, some friend will warn, "Don't lose so much weight that it will make you look older," and then to save your feelings, add, "Not that you do of course."

Reducing can be ageing. But it need not be. If your reducing program hasn't helped you to look a good five years younger, or if reducing shows in your face, take different tactics. Try slimming. You'll get beautiful returns if you'll add two to four pounds of weight, while exercising 12 minutes a day.

Your aim should be to erase the strain without losing the streamlines. Boosting the protective foods will banish the strain by stepping up your vitality. Make sure to have two glasses of milk a day, or buttermilk. Some days have three glasses. Eat an egg or two every day, and plenty of fresh vegetables and fresh fruits, plus good protein in lean meat or fish or cheese. These foods pick up your spirits. And they help you to stay with a slimming food pattern Keep the calories just enough above the margin of your requirements so as to gain a fourth pound each week. By taking the extra calories in good nutrition you'll gain a lot of sparkle with that fraction of weight. But a warning, don't slip back to your carbohydrate ways or you'll be on the incline to obesity.

And practice relaxation. Stop using your face so hard, and don't be grim about your reducing program That doesn't get a gal anything but wrinkles.

Daily exercise will work wonders. Calisthenics is not much help in making old pounds hurry off, but it will keep new pounds from bunching up in middle-ageing spots A daily half dozen will do beautifully . . . two standing stretch-bends for waist measure, a couple of contracting exercises to whittle the middle, and a couple of chin lifters.

Some of the best streamliners are taken from a lying down position, feet elevated, to encourage a fresh flow of blood to the face and throat Here is a streamlined set

Position: Lying on back on floor, feet elevated to chair seat (ant.) Then from this position, bring alternate knees to chest, pulling up and in with the abdominal muscles. Then repeat exercise, with hips lifted off floor; raise alternate knees to chest; then raise alternate legs to right angles, stretching arms up on floor overhead to increase the stretch.

These exercises will slim off inches while you add a pound or two to ease the strain. It won't be more than two weeks before that same friend will be remarking how beautifully well you look.

Town and Country Blouse

For a summer divided between town and country . . . an elegantly simple blouse so beautifully and cleverly made, it's as proper for luncheon in the city and dinner in the country as it is for commuting between the two. Rita Corday wears it here as it should be worn in town—sharpened up with a gold leather belt over a swirling black crepe skirt, long black gloves and a necklace of gold-colored beads.

In the country it goes free and easy with a plaid or checkered cotton skirt cut short for daytime, a taffeta or crepe cut long for evening

It has a high neck cap sleeves and comes in a washable fabric that will take it freshly and coolly through the sultriest weather.

Mary's Lamb Goes Hollywood

And the lamb in this case is miraculously transformed into lustrous, luxurious fur that is as long-wearing as it is beautiful. The material, Bonmouton, is a new plastic-coated, weather-resistant processed lambskin, which will be a top fashion item in this fall's fur market. Despite the beauty, it's a modest fur which fits comfortably into any family circle, and into any budget. A versatile fur, too, since it is as suitable for a snow suit, as for an evening wrap.

Choice of Hollywood, too, the Goldwyn girls selected wraps on a recent trip to New York. Above, Virginia Belmont, Martha Montgomery, Karen Gaylord, and Shirley Ballard watch their Bonmouton coats in the making behind the scenes of the fur business. Betty Cargyle, right, models a cape and beret of the new fur.

Spring showers, fall rains and winter's snow fail to mat or curl the year-around fur. In addition to the brown which Betty wears, famous French and American designers have designed one-of-a-kind garments in white, red, blue, green, two shades of gray and a rose beige. All Bonmouton is processed by Motty Eitington, Inc., of New York City.

Washington Letter

—By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON — Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, sprightly, keen-eyed and sharp-witted former U. S. Minister to Norway, now in her middle seventies, is enroute to Oslo, where an audience with her friend, King Haakon, awaits her.

This remarkable woman, who learned to ski when she was 67, escaped from the Norwegian capital on the arrival of the Nazis back in 1940. She telephoned first news of the invasion to the American Minister to Sweden, Frederick Sterling, after a perilous journey over the Swedish border. One of the first things Daisy Harriman wants to do when she gets to Oslo is to thank King Haakon for conferring upon her one of the country's highest awards—the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Olav.

During the First World War, Mrs. Harriman served as head of the Red Cross motor corps, taking some 300 American women to France with her.

Lately Mrs. Harriman has not figured prominently in the news. But for more than 30 years she has distinguished herself in social, civic and political circles.

Her Sunday night soirees became a Washington institution. An accomplished hostess, she limited her parties to not more than 32 guests. They always remained at the dinner table until after the coffee was served. Then the fun began.

To start the ball rolling, Daisy tossed controversial issues into discussions to get conflicting opinions. She had a rule, though, that no one could get angry, nor repeat what had been said. The story goes that if such a thing ever happened, the offender would never again be invited.

The daughter of a British shipping family, Daisy made her debut at famed old Delmonico's in New York. She married the New York banker, J. Borden Harriman, at 19. She was left a widow with a daughter in 1914.

When she showed interest in public affairs, Charles Evans Hughes, then governor of New York, asked her to serve on a board of a women's reformatory.

She met Franklin D. Roosevelt when a group of New Yorkers got together to set up milk stations for the poor. She helped establish a farm for tuberculars. She set up New York's exclusive Colony Club and was its president for years.

Woodrow Wilson appointed Mrs. Harriman the only woman member of his Federal Industrial Relations Committee. She came to Washington to live.

She was official hostess for the Democratic Convention in 1936 at Philadelphia.

She is said to have the straightest back in Washington. She told me once it was probably the result of early training given her by her British army officer father.

As a child she had to walk with a book on her head for thirty minutes a day.

She rides, golfs and enjoys fishing. She has written two books, "Pinafores to Politics" and "Mission to the North."

After visiting with her numerous Norwegian friends, Daisy Harriman expects to go to England and the continent before returning home.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, July 24.

Continued high pressure, with all the forces and faculties operating under high tempo, with the aim of changes of major importance encouraged and stimulated by existing developments in which the support of those in influential positions may give impetus to dramatic and perhaps spectacular performance.

These, however, should be kept within the bounds of reason, with some restraints, lest energy and nerves give out. Slow down and listen to a sane voice of intuition or idealism, especially should there be a romantic slant to the adventures. Shun argument or bickering in unessentials.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of constructive and concrete performance of large and important projects, in which energy, efficiency and executive ability beckon on to major operations, in which important persons are substantially co-operative.

But be not carried away by high pressure, subtle influence, or other deviation from wisely formulated plans and objectives.

A child born on this day may have exceptional talents and abilities, both in realistic and idealistic performance or purpose. Help from high places assists to a successful and romantic career.

"It Looks Like Isaly's, Mommy"

All milk doesn't look the same. There IS a difference, an important difference which is the result of Homogenization—the scientific process which improves milk. Here's how you can tell Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk at a glance . . .

There is no visible cream "line". That's because Homogenization distributes the cream evenly through the entire quart by combining the cream particles with the milk—the cream does not separate from the milk and rise to the top. So actually the cream "line" is at the bottom of the bottle, since the cream is equally distributed from top to bottom.

Though you cannot see a cream "line" in a quart of Isaly's Homogenized Milk, you will quickly notice it has a rich, golden color all the way down. There's cream in every drop, and that means the last glassful is just as rich and nourishing as the first. Youngsters won't balk at drinking milk poured from the bottom of the bottle when they know it's Isaly's Homogenized Milk, for Homogenized Milk plays the game of "fair and square." Every glassful, whether from the top or bottom, has the same delicious, creamy flavor that children like.

If you haven't enjoyed Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D. Milk, why not try a quart tomorrow and see and taste the difference? Call us now—4217-6—or drop us a post card, won't you, and tell us when to begin delivery of this richer, better, more nourishing milk. There is no extra charge for delivery to your door.

For your added health protection, every quart of Isaly's milk has double sanitary sealing. First, a tight but easily removed cap in the top of the bottle which may be used as a cover when the bottle is not in use, and second, a fresh, cellophane hood which fits snugly down over the top of the bottle and keeps the pouring rim healthfully clean. Look for the crisp, golden cellophane hood on Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D. Milk.

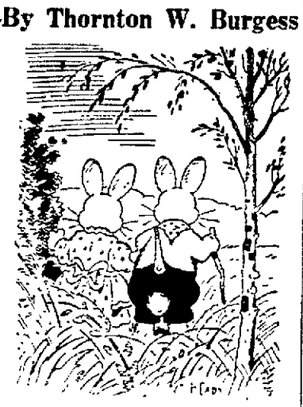
MRS. PETER TRIES TO BE PATIENT

You'll find but little ever gained
Through patience that is over-strained.
—Old Mother Nature.



"Out where?" asked Peter cunningly

"So we have five babies," said Peter Rabbit.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Peter. You know very well that I won't know where they are and you won't tell me. Do you think that is right?" said Peter.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Peter.

"Well, I don't. How is it right? You know very well that I don't hurt them. So how can it be right to keep their nest a secret from their own father?" Peter persisted.

Mrs. Peter sighed. "Must we go all over this every time you find out that we have a new family of babies?" said she. "I have told you over and over again why I hide my nest even from you. You wouldn't hurt the babies yourself, but you would visit them. You know you would. You couldn't keep away."

"You visit them, don't you? You visit them every day, several times a day for all I know," said Peter.

"Night, Peter, every night, not day," corrected Mrs. Peter. "In daytime some one would be more likely to see me than at night."

"Every night then. Why shouldn't I visit them at night if you do?" demanded Peter.

"I have to and you don't. I have to feed the darlings. I would like to visit them often but I don't, only as often as is necessary. As it is I am always fearful that some one may follow me. I'll be glad when they are big enough to follow me here to the dear Old Briar-patch," said Mrs. Peter.

"Where they should have been born," grumbled Peter. "Here we live in the safest place in all the Great World and you make a nest for the babies somewhere else, goodness knows where."

"I hope nobody else does," said Mrs. Peter softly.

"I don't know what in the world you are thinking of when you have your babies outside the dear Old Briar-patch," continued Peter. He spoke crossly for he was still peeved.

"Yes, you do know. I've told you, and your own good sense would tell you why if you would let it," replied Mrs. Peter. "Everybody knows we live here in the dear Old Briar-patch, our enemies as well as our friends. They know we have lived here a long time. They have seen our children grow up here. If while they are helpless an enemy should take it into his head that we had babies where would he look for them first? Right here in the dear old Briar-patch. Yes, sir, this is the very first place he would look for them. You know that as well as I do, Peter Rabbit."

"Reddy Fox couldn't get in here if he tried on account of the brambles; they would tear his coat to pieces. No more could Redtail the Hawk or any other members of his family. What if they should know the babies are here?" retorted Peter.

Mrs. Peter began to lose patience. Yes, sir, she did so. It seemed to her that she had to go all through this explanation every time she had a new family of wee babies hidden outside the Briar-patch. "You know very well, Peter Rabbit, that Foxes and Hawks and Owls are not the only ones who would like dinner of our babies. What about Shadow the Weasel and Billy Mink and Jimmy Skunk and Mr. Blacksnake and"—

"Never mind any more," Peter broke in hastily. Of course they could get around in here, and they might find the babies if hidden here. But they may do that wherever the babies are. Are you telling me that the babies are any safer outside the dear Old Briar-patch than inside it? Probably they are where there isn't a thorn or a bramble to guard them!"

"I am. That is just what I am trying to tell you. In here they would be just where a chance enemy would expect to find them and would look for them. Now they are where no one ever would expect to find them, and so will not be looking for them. In here they would be in danger from expectedness, while out there they are safe because of unexpectedness," explained Mrs. Petter.

"Out where?" asked Peter cunningly.

"Out on the Green Meadows," replied Mrs. Peter sweetly. Peter was no wiser than before.

The next story: "The Visitor."

The first wheeled vehicle to have gone through South Pass in the Continental Divide in Wyoming was a cannon which Gen. William Ashley took through to his fort at Utah lake in 1824.

Second Blooms or Seeds From Delphiniums?

By DEAN HALLIDAY

FRESH seed from good strains is of the utmost importance in growing delphiniums. Fully ripened seeds germinate better than partly-ripened ones. Soaking the seeds sems to give a more uniform germination.

When saving seeds from your own delphinium plants, do not allow all the seed pods to mature. Decide early how many you require and cut off the rest, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. This gives more nourishment to the remaining pods, forming stronger seeds.

Delphiniums will frequently bloom a second time if they are prevented from forming seed pods. When the main flower spike begins to fade, cut it away, as illustrated. This allows the plant's energy to go into the remaining lateral blooms instead of into seed. As the upper laterals fade, cut them away, leaving only the lower ones to bloom.

When the whole flower has faded, cut it back to about one foot from the ground. Plug the open end with wax or chewing gum to prevent insects and rain from getting into the stalk, causing rot or other damage.

Allow the plant to rest a week or 10 days. Then water and fertilize well for second bloom during late August and September.

Delphiniums thrive in any ordinary garden soil which is well drained, yet does not suffer from dryness. If the soil is soggy, artificial drainage should be provided.

SNAKE VS. SNAKE

THE DALLES, Ore.—(U.P.)—Because he had a blacksnake coiled around the upper part of his arm, Chester Reed, professional snake handler with the Meeker Brothers carnival, suffered no ill effects when he was struck by a rattlesnake. Reed said the blacksnake acted as a tourniquet.

Barclay On Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

A LITTLE spot card may be more important than an ace or king when you are defending against an opponent's No Trump game contract. If you are up against a discarding problem as he runs his established winners, it is usually vital for you to hold protection against the longest suit which the declarer has in his own hand or the dummy. In such a situation, it may be wiser to throw off a top card in a shorter suit in order to keep from setting up the declarer's long one.

What a minimum for a so- called "strong No Trump" bid by South, who surely lacked enough to go the rest of the way after North took him to 2-No Trumps. But he rated the weak defensive play of his opponent as worth about a trick to him. In that he proved right, though he also needed a bit of other luck, too, for his contract.

West led the diamond 3 to the A and South won the 7 then with the K. He cleared out the club A with a lead to the K, and the diamond 4 eliminated his last stopper there. Obliged now to get his game before losing the lead, since the diamonds were set up against him, he scored three clubs. West had two discards to make, first picking the heart 4 and then—wanting to retain his heart honors plus a diamond to lead to East—made the fatal toss of his spade 7.

Declarer followed with his spade A, the spade J finesse and the spade K, which dropped the Q and set up the 9 for the game trick. If West had not thrown off that spade 7, South could never have made his game. On that trick, he could have discarded either his diamond or else the heart A or K and thus beaten the contract because he would have headed off the fourth spade trick. He then would have finished with the last three tricks after South had only eight, instead of the last two after South had nine.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

The famous theatrical partnership of George M. Cohan and Sam Harris furnished Lou Holtz with one of the prize stories of his repertoire.

They were entertaining at Dinty Moore's one night, and the party kept growing and growing. So did the check. At closing time, Harris asked Dinty for the bill, but Cohan grabbed it away from him.

"I warn you," said Harris to Moore, "that if you let Cohan pay this check, I'll never eat in this restaurant again."

Cohan interrupted angrily, "And if you take one penny from Harris, you'll never see me in here either."

Faced with the loss of two of his best customers—not to mention the patronage attracted by their mere presence, Dinty Moore did some very quick thinking, swallowed hard, and declared bravely, "No more quibbling, gentlemen! This check is on the house.' And he tore it into shreds.

As they left the restaurant, Cohan thumped his partner heartily on the back, "Well, Sam," he said. "The old act seems to be working as good as ever."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Westbrook Pegler . . .

NEW YORK—This new veterans' organization called the American Veterans' Committee, or AVC,, Inc., seems to love publicity because it is always turning the crank and grinding out press "releases," and, in its official bulletin about its recent first annual convention in Des Moines, it boasted about its press notices like an old time dog-act hanging around outside the palace.

I thought a lot of this coverage was slanted in favor of the AVC, Inc., by writers who hold that the program of the Political Action bunch is gospel and that all doubters are dirty heretics and doubt that it will be entirely helpful to the AVC because it will irritate such infidels, amounting, in all, to a mighty number.

The term "release," meaning a handout from a press-agent, is really a misnomer and a distortion because in the original sense it meant a speech by an important person or a decision by a court or bureau such as the interstate commerce commission which was given to the press associations and papers in advance under seal of confidence for a simultaneous "release" by the clock or by flash.

That is what "release" meant originally and to violate or jump a release was a very serious breach of ethics and still is, for that matter, in the case of bona fide advance copy, but not, of course, in the case of an ordinary publicity handout, sheaves of which are dumped on the desk every day and hardly any of which is read, much less published. A reporter covering a speech that is being held for release is perfectly safe in leaving the job after hearing the speaker through the first paragraph 99 times out of a hundred but may fall on his face the hundredth time when the fellow gets his second wind or loses his temper and starts dealing fresh material off the end of his tongue or the top of his head. Of course if he is on the air, the radio quotes him literally and without special effort but the press has to watch for digressions and stick them into the text, sometimes noting that the insert mater was not in the original version.

Nowadays a batch of mail may bring a "release" from some tub-thumper consisting of some banal joke attributed to a night club comedian or the political views of some swollen ignoramus acting in a movie and reams of mimeograph from political organizations promoting everything from oleo to unrestricted immigration to Palestine.

We have also been snowed up with straight propaganda and publicity copy or "releases" from a lot of the government bureaus since the New Deal began, most of all by the treasury in the interest of the Bretton Woods thing and by the OPA, but in big volume also by the department of justice from time to time. And, while it can't be said that the Supreme Court actually distributed handouts, some of the learned brethern haven't hesitated to slip information to selected individuals that should have been secrets of the circle, as Justice Jackson noted in bending back the ears of Justice Black. Some people say the treasury and OPA violated the law in using public money to promote pet isms of the bosses of these bureaus among the people and to instigate pressure against congress but I guess that even so, it would be silly to expect the department of justice to indict anyone for that.

I think the AVC's publicity department is more efficient than the mimeograph service of any of the other veterans' groups, old or new, in the sense that its copy is more provocative and newsy but not all of its handouts will promote its ambition to round up the greatest number of veterans. It has a very definite political character of a leftish angle and I assume that those veterans who are shopping round for an organization to join will discriminate and refuse to have any truck with an outfit that promotes measures which they oppose.

ST. IVES, CORNWALL, England—(AP)—

"Knill commands and all obey,
"Lads and lassies haste away:
"Aunts and uncles, maids and wives,
"All are gay, at gay St. Ives."

The centry-old tune is being hummed around the sitting kitchens in this old Cornish settlement these days as the seamen, the fishermen and the tinners make ready for their fifth-year celebration of the feast of St. James and the spending of another 44 pounds ($176) from Johannes Knill's legacy.

Knill, once mayor, constable and customs collector of the Borough, created in his will a perpetual annuity so that from the year 1801 onward every fifth anniversary of the feast day should find "no tongue is mute or foot is still, but one and all are on the hill."

This year the feast day falls on July 25.

Early that morning the three great locks on the ancient iron chest holding Mister Knill's festival funds will be unfastened by the St. Ives mayor, customs collector and vicar, each of whom is the traditional keeper of one key.

Between 10 a. m. and noon, ten little girls, all under the age of ten and the daughters of seamen, fishermen or tinners, will report to the committee. Each will receive a white hair ribbon and the sum of two shillings (40 cents) for which "to music furnished by a fiddler," they will dance for 15 minutes around a 50-foot granite pyramid erected to Knill's memory on Worvas hill. After the dance, the children must recite the one hundredth psalm.

The fiddler will be paid one pound ($4) and two widows, 64 or older, will be given a pound each for supervising the dancing and certifying that the terms of the bequest have been carried out. Another pound must be spent for the girls' ribbons and a cockade for the fiddler's hat.

The St. Ives parent or parents who have reared to the age of ten or older the greatest number of children without parochial assistance will be given another five pounds of the day's expenditures.

Some wife, between the age of 26 and 36 who since last Dec. 31 has been deemed by the trustees to be "most worthy because of her duty and kindness to her parents or her friends" will be awarded another ten pounds ($40). Five pounds ($20) will be awarded the St. Ives woman deemed to be the best knitter of fishing nets and to the best packer or curer of fish.

Topping off the festival, the three trustees each accompanied by two guests, will spend the final ten pounds on a feast for themselves at a village tavern.

FINDLEY HEIRS ARE REVEALED

Physician's Will Names His Brothers, Sister, Employe; Estate Value Not Set.

Included in the will of the late Dr. Samuel E. Findley, 815 Marion avenue, who died July 13, was a bequest of $500 to "my faithful employe and housekeeper, Emma Gosser."

Remainder of the estate, according to the terms of the will signed Nov. 30, 1944, was left to the physician's four brothers, Frank, Howard, Ralph and Emery, and his sister, Florence F. Jelliff.

Dr. Findley originally had nominated Mrs. Jelliff as executrix of the estate but in a codicil signed last month he cancelled that nomination and named the Citizens National Bank and Trust company as executor. Preliminary papers filed in probate court did not estimate the size of the estate.

Veteran Job Training Hit

GALION—Failure of a large manufacturing company to keep its agreement to give veterans thorough on-the-job vocational training was charged in a report by Sam Brewer, service officer, at the meeting of Scarbrough post, Ameican Legion, last night.

The report stated that the schedule of lectuers, progressive job shifts, and bottom-up training was not being maintained by the company. Veterans are being employed under the training program on a production rather than on an instructional basis, Brewer said.

A representative of the Veterans administration visited the plant a week ago, Brewer said, but his report has not been received.

Firm to Finance Plane Purchases

For the first time in aviation history air-minded persons may buy planes and insure them on the installment plan, a new nation-wide plan of the Universal C. I. T. Credit corporation, it was announced today by the company's branch manager, F. J. Smeltzer.

The company has 325 branch offices throughout the country, including one in Mansfield at 307 Richland Trust building, to accommodate plane-buying customers.

The new plan enables the plane buyer to finance the purchase for the same five percent carrying charge that applies to automobiles and also gives a low insurance rate.

Fatal Accidents In County Rise Above State Average

Richland county isn't as safe a place as it used to be, Statistics from the Ohio Safety council revealed today that it is one of six counties in which accident rates rose above the state average during the past year.

With 57 fatal accidents from all causes in the county last year and a total of 6,100 persons injured, the accident rate has climbed to 74.1 deaths per 100,000 population against the state rate of 71.23 deaths per 100,000 population. Richland county's loss from accidents totaled approximately $1,900,000 in 1945.

Nearly 60 per cent of the deaths occurred within the limits of the Mansfield Municipal Health district, 15 per cent in the Shelby Municipal Health district, and the remainder in other areas within the county.

At the eighth annual Ohio Safety conference to be held Sept. 23 through 25 in the Hotel Statler, Cleveland, 25 general subject sessions will be held at which all phases of accident prevention will be discussed.

HOLDS ACTION TO AWAIT OPA REVIVAL MOVE

No State Law Anticipated If Congress Renews Federal Price Controls.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Three separate state rent control measures were under scrutiny by the Ohio legislature today but action on them was deferred until Thursday at least to see whether congress would revive federal controls which died with OPA June 30.

The bills introduced at the third special session last night called for rental increases ranging from 10 per cent, as recommended by Gov. Frank J. Lausche, to 15 per cent as called for by Ohio real estate interests, and no advances as advocated by organized labor and others.

Lausche in his message to the special session emphasized that he felt no state rent control program should be enacted if the federal government revived its controls as provided for in legislation now under consideration by congress.

Allows 10 Per Cent Boost.

The administration bill, introduced by Sen. Maurice W. Lipscher (D., Mahoning), senate minority leader, would allow a statewide boost of 10 per cent on residential rents frozen before Jan. 1, 1942.

Administration would be left to municipal and probate court judges, who could name five-member fair rent committees to aid them, and assess fines of from $100 to $500 for violations.

Evictions would be confined to non-payment for rent; unreasonable refusal of tenants to access by owners; creating a nuisance, conversion into multiple units, or occupancy by owners, the latter two provisions requiring six months' notice to tenants.

Proposed as an emergency measure, the state law would become effective upon enactment and extend until June 30, 1947, or until federal control became effective.

The measure calling for 15 per cent increases was offered by Sen. Evert E. Addison (R., Franklin) and provided for creation of a board composed of the state directors of commerce, welfare and industrial relations to decide where controls should be applied.

Sen. H. D. Byrne (D., Portage) submitted a bill calling for continuation of state rents as of June 30 without any increase. Otherwise his measure generally was similar to the administration proposal.

None of the measures would affect commercial properties or provide for refunds of rent increases paid since June 30.

Tells Judge He Just Didn't Recall Turning In Fire Alarm

Tony Scully, 414 Fifth avenue, told the judge that he didn't remember just how his hand happened to get up to the fire alarm box.

"The first thing I remember is the clanging of fire engines and the crowd of people that gathered around me," Scully told Municipal Court Judge H. H. Schettler in court today.

Scully said that he had "been drinking" and "I must have just reached my hand up—I don't remember."

For Scully's benefit, the judge explained the intracacies of sending an alarm—you have to break a glass, turn a key and pull a lever. "It's hard to believe that you don't remember doing that," Judge Schettler said.

Schettler told Sculley that the four fire engines which his false alarm sent racing to Orange and Wayne streets Friday night cost the city about $200.

Sculley was fined $15 and costs and also forfeited a $15 bond which he posted for his appearance in court Saturday morning. He lost the bond money because he didn't appear and a warrant had to be issued for his arrest.

Three Building Permits Issued

A city building permit was issued to Albert Warga, 257 Home avenue, to construct a five-room brick veneer residential dwelling at 259 Home avenue. Cost was estimated at $8,000.

Warga was also given a permit to remodel a section of his residence at an estimated cost of $300.

John Weigler, 548 Wayne street, was given permission to build a garage at an estimated cost of $375, at his residence.

160 Start Firing Today In Ohio Amateur Golf Tourney

Hal Clawson

Mansfield turns out a whale of a lot of good young ball players.

There is no better proof of this than the records of the Mansfield high team and the present American Legion junior nine.

When baseball was resumed out at Senior high in 1945 after a lapse of 20 years, the Tygers climaxed the season by winning the district title.

Again this year Coach Jim Lymper's club copped the coveted district crown.

Although I don't have the record of the junior Legion team for the past years, I do know that Coach Dewey Durant's club won the district title last summer.

Last Sunday the junior nine came home from the district tourney at Norwalk with the title.

Next week the local club will be in Delaware for the state Legion tourney. All of the 14 American Legion districts are expected to have a team there. Mansfield will be representing the fifth district.

Another good example of the interest in baseball among the youngsters of the city is the sandlot program that was organized here early this summer.

Directed by Lymper, the program has been a big success and an even greater organized program is being planned for next year.

Ralph Hardy, one of the men who did considerable work in getting the sandlot program going here, was talking yesterday of staging a county baseball tournament here around Labor Day with the county's half-dozen hardball clubs taking part.

It sounds like it would be a great thing — especially if the teams wanted to settle the supremacy of the county.

The Toledo Mudhens of the American Association will hold a tryout camp at Swayne field in Toledo starting July 29 and lasting through Aug. 2. . . . Top minor league team of the St. Louis Browns, the Toledo camp offers young players a chance to break into organized baseball.

Ohio State's board of trustees has unanimously approved the appointment of Richard Larkins as the new athletic boss. He'll succeed Lynn W. St. John next July 1.

NCAA May Soon Have To Crack Whip

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO—(AP)—The inflammable subject of recruiting athletes by colleges and universities was discussed in secrecy today by representatives of some 200 schools of 19 collegiate conferences.

They are talking plenty behind closed doors and are expected to make recommendations for combatting the growing semi-professional trend in the lush post-war seasons. A policy of amateurism is scheduled to be submitted to the NCAA council tomorrow.

In 1940, the NCAA embodied in its constitution a "declaration of sound practices for intercollegiate athletics," but lacking a firm expression from its constituents, the NCAA never has enforced the code.

Many delegates to the unprecedented round-table meeting agree that a strong stand for reviving the "spirit of amateurism" might lead to the NCAA cracking the whip.

The general concensus among some 40 representatives of schools throughout the country was that the parley was proving a success.

"If we are able to agree on principles, our influence will be tremendous in keeping amateurism alive," declared Kenneth L. Wilson, Western conference commissioner who called the meeting.

He suggested the most effective means to combat bidding for athletes—and the athlete himself waiting for the best offer—would be to strike offending schools off sports schedules.

* * *

Officials and coaches huddled until late last night but were told not to speak for publication on what happened. A statement is to be handed out later.

Royal Battle In Prospect as Cards Open Eastern Swing

By JACK HAND, AP Sports Writer.

World series money will be dangling in front of the Cardinals, Dodgers and Cubs today as they open important engagements in the National league pennant race.

The Boston Red Sox are about "in" if they can play .500 ball the rest of the way in the American league, but the senior circuit still is wide open. St. Louis and Brooklyn come east in an exact tie for first place with identical 53-34 records, and the defending champs from Chicago are only five games back and coming strong.

Inability to beat the lowly New York Giants consistently has been as embarrassing to the Cards as failure to stop St. Louis has been to Brooklyn. Mel Ott's gang has trimmed the Red Birds eight out of 13 and the Brooks have copped only three of 12 from Eddie Dyer's crew.

St. Louis, fresh from a successful home stand in which it beat the eastern visitors in 10 of 13 starts, opens its next-to-last long road tour in the Polo Grounds. Three dates there, followed by another trio with the Braves in Boston leads directly to a July 30-31, Aug. 1 set at Ebbets field.

After Brooklyn, St. Louis swings to Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago on a complete tour of the circuit before returning home Aug. 15.

Despite the disastrous jaunt, on which they dropped eight of 13, the Brooks came home with a four-game victory string.

It's like old times in the American league with one club way out in front and the others scrambling for a piece of change. Only this time it's Boston, not New York, on the front end by 11½ games and threatening to make it more.

Named State Committee

Robert M. Moorhead, vice president of the Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been named vice chairman of the state Junior C. of C. athletic committee.

The appointment was made by President George Britton, Akron, at a meeting of the organization's board in Columbus last Sunday.

In his new post, Moorhead will be responsible for the state-wide athletic program to be conducted during the winter.

Others from the local Junior C. of C. who were present at Columbus include John Finefrock, jr., Don Kirkpatrick, Robert Moore, Morris Gowling, John Hattman and Richard Nixon.

Morgan's 38 Tappan Low

Noel Morgan's two-over par 38 won him low honors last night as the Tappan Stove golf league played its 10th set of matches at Possum Run.

Other low cards turned in were Everett Tiffany's 39, John Burns' 39, Nick Weber's 40 and Richard Creveling's 40.

Jr. Olympics Speeded UP

Old man weather cooperated in fine style with the Junior Olympic practice last night at the high school stadium. With the track in the best of condition and the air clean and cool the boys put in one of the best practice sessions to date.

The high jump and the hurdles were stressed with a few boys practicing broad jumping and the shot put. Most of the time was spent improving form especially in the high jump where Coach Harry Mehock put a group of promising jumpers through a thorough practice session.

Assistant Bob Shade presided over the hurdles and a few shuttle relays were run to top the practice off.

Mehock intends to run a few time trials at the practice Wednesday evening to get an idea how the different boys are coming along.

* * *

The 12 to 13-year-old class is still very small at present and it is hoped that more boys of this age will come out in the future. Medals will be given to the first three places in each event at the city elimination meet in August.

Win Church Loop Tilts

St. Matthews pounded out a 10-3 win over First Presbyterian and First Lutheran beat Baptist, 19-6, in the Church softball league last night.

R. Rush hurled an eight-hitter for the Saints against the Presbys while Colderhead copped hitting honors with four for four.

Kibler and Traxler smacked out home runs as the Lutherans handily whipped the Baptists. Appleman and R. McCullough each had four hits apiece for the winners.

No Early Favorites With Two Stars Out

Former Mansfielder Jim Stout One of Better Players In Tourney

By HAROLD HARRISON

LIMA, O.—(AP)—The biggest field in history—more than 160—started shooting today in Ohio's first state amateur golf tournament since 1942.

As the firing started over the rolling Shawnee Country club course, the most popular way to pick a likely winner was to close both eyes and stick a pin somewhere in the long entry list.

That method seemed as good as any since Frank Stranahan of Toledo elected to pass up the tournament and Bob Servis of Dayton, a four-time winner of the event, reported press of personal business would prevent him from competing.

Stranahan won the last two state tournaments played—in 1941 and 1942.

The program today called for 18 holes of stroke play with the 64 low scorers qualifying to start four days of match play tomorrow.

Although there was no outstanding favorite, these were among the names you heard mentioned most frequently in locker room discussions: Maurice McCarthy of Cincinati, a three-time state champion; Johnny Florio of Columbus, twice a winner of the crown; Jim Stout of Lima, the club champion at the tournament course; Eddie Meister of Cleveland, Harold Paddock, jr., of Cleveland, low amateur in the recent Canadian Open; Pete Sohl of Columbus.

McCarthy had a two-under-par 70 in the pro-amateur yesterday and Sohl matched perfect figures with a 72. Stout had a 73 but the Lima contingent warned that he's capable of giving par a beating. Florio's pro-amateur count was 78.

There was a two-way tie for top honors in the pro-am with each combination gathering in approximateley $150 in cash and merchandise. The tie involved the team of Bob Kepler, Ohio State university golf coach, and Sohl, and that of Ock Willoweit, Dayton pro, and Servis. They each had a best ball score of 63, nine under par.

Kepler's 68 was the day's best individual effort. Servis, Willoweit and Vic Stolly of Lima each had an individual 69. Stolly, like Servis, will not be playing in the state tournament.

Under the tournament procedure, each pro played with three amateurs and his score was matched with that of each of the amateurs.

After the 64 qualifiers for the championship flight are determined today, there will be two 18-hole rounds of match play each tomorrow and Thursday. The 36-hole semi-finals will be played Friday and the 36-hole finals Saturday.

Loans Gain Final Game

Provident Loan—Mansfield's entry in the girls' district softball tournament at Marion this week—drew a bye and is in the finals. Only three teams have entered the tournament.

Cochran and Dairymple of Mt. Vernon will play Smitty's Grill of Marion tomorrow night at 8:30 at Smitty's park.

The Loans got the luck of the drawing and therefore gained the finals Thursday night.

Entries have been pouring in for the men's district play with eight already in and several more expected. Play in this tourney will get under way Aug. 5 and run throughout the week.

JUNIORS PLAY GALION

The city's junior sandlot baseball team will play Galion's juniors here tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Liberty park.

Jimmy Clark Cracks Out a 64 In National Publinks Play

DENVER —(AP)— Jimmy Clark, yellow-haired, 25-year-old Californian, was hot after medalist honors today as the 188 golfers remaining in the National Public Links tournament teed off for a second qualifying tour of the difficult Wellshire municipal course.

The Long Beach youngster, who shot a 64 lowest medal score on record in U. S. G. A. competition - at the last tournament in Spokane, Wash., in 1941, fired another 64 yesterday to take a five-stroke lead over his nearest competitors.

The dry, sun-baked layout, so tough that four men withdrew after testing the first nine, was no problem for Clark, whose irons were near-perfect as he returned to competition after four years of service in the Marine corps.

He hit the pins with four of his approach shots and when a hot putter was needed he had that, too. On the sixth, he sank a 30-footer for one of his seven birdies.

Closest behind Clark as the shotmakers from 30 states, Canada and the Hawaiian Islands began the last lap of the 36-hole qualifying test were Buck Gann and Arthur St. John of Tulsa, Okla., who trimmed two strokes off Wellshire's par with 69s.

Altogether, eight players broke par and six others matched it. Sixty-three had 75 or better and 80 and 76 or better, indicating that 150 to 151 would be necessary to enter the 64-man championship flight in which match play starts tomorrow.

Whippets To Get Grid Shoes Early

SHELBY—Foot all shoes will be distributed to the Shelby high school gridders early next month to get them used to wearing them before the other equipment is issued Aug. 19 in preparation for opening drills Aug. 20 in charge of Coach Al Fendrick.

The Whippets will open the 1946 grid schedule at New Philadelphia on Sept. 13. This is the first year that Shelby has played the New Philadelphia eleven.

Coach Fendrick succeeds Larry Swackhamer as grid coach here this fall. Swackhamer, Joseph Yohn and Charles Williams will serve as assistants on the coaching staff.

The 1946 Whippet grid schedule follows: Sept. 13, at New Philadelphia; Sept. 20, Willard; Sept 27, at Galion;

Oct. 4, at Bucyrus, Oct. 11, at Ashland; Oct 18 Bellevue; Oct. 24, at Norwalk;

Nov. 1, Upper Sandusky, and Nov. 8, Crestline.

Sports Briefs

Don Daley fired a five-under par 31 at the Bucyrus Country club last Sunday . . . It is believed to be the lowest score ever turned in there . . . He had two eagles, three birdies and two bogeys.

* * *

Friday evening at New London, the Ralph Godfrey Donkey circus will play the New London softball team with the proceeds to go into the city park fund.

The Mt. Gilead horse shoe tossers defeated Mansfield by 90 points on the Mounts home courts Sunday afternoon in a NCO league match. Franks scored 598 points for the local team.

ASHLAND OK'S TEACHER TRADE WITH BRITAIN

High School Home Economics Teachers to Be Exchanged.

ASHLAND—The city board of education has approved an Anglo-American exchange of high school home economics teachers for the 1946-47 school year, Supt. S. F. Jameson announced today.

Miss Agnes Dinsmore, home economics teacher at Ashland, for the past two years, is scheduled to sail for England Aug. 13. She will be one of three domestic science mistresses in a department of 250 girls in the Copleston Secondary Modern School, Ipswich, Suffolk county. Prior to coming to Ashland, Miss Dinsmore taught at Liberty township high school in Hancock county.

Great Britain's contribution to the Ashland school system will be Miss Patricia Ridley, who is slated to arrive in New York Aug. 20, to participate in a two-day orientation course sponsored by the office of education in Washington. Miss Ridley is now a teacher in the Copleston school to which Miss Dinsmore will go.

The exchange is part of an international plan to bring about a better understanding between the people of the two countries. For Miss Ridley it means coming from a country where the teaching of home economics has been made difficult by food and clothing shortages during the war period. For Miss Dinsmore it will mean adapting her teaching from the use of plentiful materials to observation of a rigid rationing program.

Both of them will probably return to their home schools in August, 1947, with a new file of international recipes.

ASHLAND—Rush Rosenberry, teacher of wind instruments at Ashland high school, has announced that he will give no more music lessons until school reconvenes. Rosenberry recently lost some front teeth and received a gashed lip in an automobile accident.

Experts Say 1946 Corn Crop to Top 3,487,976,000 Bushels

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The agriculture department said that as a result of generally favorable growing weather in July the corn crop now is estimated at a record-breaking 3,487,976,000 bushels.

The estimate was a sharp increase over the department's July 1 prediction that the corn crop would total only 3,341,646,000 bushels. The previous record crop of 3,128,000,000 bushels was in 1944.

The wheat crop, including both winter and spring varieties, was estimated at 1,132,075,000 as compared with the July 1 estimate of 1,090,000,000.

The department's special mid-month estimate was based on crop conditions July 15 in the nation's 12 principal corn producing states and the 18 main wheat states. The department's July 1 estimates were used for less important producing states.

The department said steadily increasing yields as the wheat harvest advanced north apparently assured the largest winter wheat crop on record. Rains the first half of July brought much-needed moisture to most of the spring wheat areas.

"Indicated total wheat production as of July 15 of 1,132,075,000 bushels sets an all-time record—about 9,000,000 bushels above the previous record crop of 1945," it said.

Winter wheat production was estimated at 865,465,000 bushels and spring wheat at 266,610,000 bushels.

Estimated wheat production, including both winter and spring varieties, for Ohio was 49,750,000 bushels.

Indicated corn production in bushels was: Ohio, 185,612,000; and Kentucky, 86,835,000.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he has brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9,000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 384A, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.—Adv.

Johnson Farm at New London Harvests Bumper Wheat Crop

NEW LONDON—Western harvest days are being initiated here with the use of four combines and a crew of 24 men engaged in harvest in 225 alres of wheat.

C. C. (Johnny) Sengstock, manager for the Johnson farms here, states this is the finest stand of wheat seen on the farms. Average yield is 35 bushels to the acre, and the straw is heavy.

As soon as work is completed on the wheat crop, Sengstock says immediate attention will be given 275 acres of oats which likewise will produce a bumper crop by present indications.

To top off a harvest season that promises to be a "hummer" as the Johnson farms are concerned, Sengstock states that 475 acres of corn will require the large crew. Unless all present indications are wrong, the corn promises to be a bumper crop, too.

Johnson farms comprise approximately 2,800 acres of the finest farm land surrounding New London with 1,300 acres under cultivation. A 9,500 tree orchard is rapidly maturing to capacity production.

MANUFACTURERS OTHER GROUPS BACK NEW PLAN

Support Mayor in Drive to Curb Unlimited Fund Raising in City.

sell. Russell is serving temporarily as a representative of the Retail Merchants until that organization selects a permanent member.

All of the organizations represented on the review board have pledged themselves to give neither time nor money to any drive that is not approved by the board.

Gongwer said today that approval of an appeal does not necessarily mean that these sponsoring organizations would accept any responsibility for raising the funds. Whether or not they contribute to an approved appeal is up to the contributors themselves to determine.

Vaughn said today that the review board will have three major functions in carrying out its program:

1—To determine the worthiness and the necessity of any appeal made to the general public.

2—To set a date that will not conflict with any other approved drive.

3—In the case of a national agency drive for funds to insist that Mansfield's share be a fair one according to a "yardstick" or formula already set up.

In determining the worthiness and necessity of any appeal the board will review a detailed budget and the financial status of the organization; what percent is spent for administration and campaign and what per cent goes for the publicized program will be analyzed.

It was pointed out at last night's meeting, which was held in the mayor's office, that disapproval by the review board does not mean that an organization can not conduct a drive, but it does mean that the largest contributing groups in the city would refuse to support it.

Vaughn explained that the board would review only those appeals that are made to the general public.

Church groups, fraternal organizations and similar appeals which are confined to a membership solicitation will not be considered by the board.

But all other campaigns, including "tag day" appeals must be approved by the reviewing committee before they can hope to have the support of the public.

Vaughn urged the individual contributors of the city to give the Public Appeals Review board 100 per cent support by refusing to give either time or money to any appeal not approved. He also pointed out the wisdom of refusing all appeals by mail from national agencies without first obtaining full information on the operations of it.

Recent magazine articles have warned the public against giving to any charitable or welfare cause unless they are fully informed about it. Fake agencies have reaped millions in recent years from generous but gullible Americans.

Gongwer said that his board would send out letters to hundreds of Mansfield contributors in the next few weeks, asking their support.

More than 17 appeals to stage campaigns in Mansfield within the next six months have already been made, Gongwer said.

Recruiting Officials Praised For Assistance at Dedication

While the Mansfield Municipal airport sky show was largely an army-navy affair airport officials were especially grateful to personnel of the Mansfield army recruiting office for their aid in directing and co-ordinating both land and air traffic, as well as providing many of the exhibits.

It was through close cooperation of the dedication committee and the Mansfield army recruiting station that the huge mobile recruiting trucks were obtained which were viewed by an estimated 50,000 people.

Lt Thomas Blackburn, commanding officer of the recruiting office, made available to the committee four jeeps equipped with walkie-talkie radios for use in directing traffic and parking the planes, and loaned numerous handi-talkie sets to police and fire officials.

Special transportation was also provided by the recruiting station for press and radio men covering the event with Sgts. Thomas Farrell, Roland Hilborn, Robert Morse and Michael Selkowsky as drivers.

In order to provide better handling of the crowds Sunday, a staff car, jeep and three additional handy-talkies were brought from Lorain for the dedication committee's use by Sgts. John P. Mraz and William J. Kuhar Arrangements were also made through the Mansfield army recruiting station for an aerial photo of the ceremonies made from a B-29 by a News-Journal photographer.

10-Year-Old Boy Watches as Man Shoots Lad's Mother.

ATHENS—(AP)—Ohio and West Virginia authorities today searched for a man who 10-year-old Richard Bailey said he saw shoot and kill his mother, Pauline, on their farm at nearby Glouchester.

Athens County Sheriff George Bateman said the boy told him the man visited the farm about noon yesterday, said a few words to his mother and started her crying He then whipped out a nickel plated pistol, the sheriff quoted the boy, and started shooting

The 33-year-old mother ran to the rear of her farm home and fell in the garden, a bullet hole in her head and two in her arm. Bateman said the dead woman's husband is working in Detroit.

Report Military Leader in Control of Paraguay.

BUENOS AIRES—(U.P.)— Unofficial and unconfirmed advices from Asuncion today reported a sudden change in the government of Paraguay, with President Higinio Morinigo and his cabinet out and Gen. Vincente Machuca, commander in chief of the army, assuming power.

The Argentine border town of Formosa received reports from Paraguay that Morinigo and all his ministers had resigned, and that the president had asked the army for permission to leave for Brazil, presumably to go into exile.

Machuca, ousted by Morinigo as chief of the armed forces early last month but later restored to his post, was said in the frontier report to have taken over in Asuncion.

can roll back any rent hikes made by landlords since June 30.

The White House released without comment from the president a commerce department report saying that prices have jumped sharply since OPA died.

The report cited a 25 per cent increase in the daily spot market index for 28 basic commodities in the first 16 days of July.

The statement said the fact that subsidies expired with OPA was a factor in the higher prices, but it added that "the actual increases . . . have generally been greater than the former subsidy payments," particularly in livestock.

Plans for building the housing units actually got under way last November. It has taken the intervening eight months to collect necessary materials.

"Now that we have all materials, only a labor shortage can hold us up," Constance said.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JULY 23, 1946

Then again, what happens when a fixed income collides with an inflationary price wave?

It is suggested that even if those Illinois war plants didn't succeed in corrupting a congressman they earned their "E" for effort.

Once upon a time a since-departed Mansfielder opined that, with a dozen automobiles in the city, "too many people who couldn't afford them were buying cars"—what would he have thought if he had seen the lineup of autos headed toward the airport Sunday afternoon?

Leadership Needed In All Projects

NO GREATER assurance of a bright and prosperous future for Mansfield could be hoped for than that there would be no diminution of the determination and enthusiasm which marked the preliminary build-up and eventual achievement of the new airport project.

In all major municipal improvements, considerable time must be given to preliminary work in advance of actual accomplishment, and capable, earnest leadership is essential to success.

Years were required to study and plan for an adequate water supply for Mansfield, but this is soon to become a reality. Inadequacy of the city's sewer system continues as an unsolved problem, and this is among the "musts" of the future, as is also the long-delayed project of reducing flood damage in the lower industrial, business and residential areas.

Railroad grade crossing elimination has made substantial progress as a result of persistent effort, but a growing Mansfield cannot safely disregard the still numerous grade crossings such as those on East Fourth, North Main and Bowman streets.

While enlargement of the Mansfield postoffice is primarily a federal responsibility, this project could probably be hastened by greater display of local interest—at least to the extent of making sure that it is not neglected when such construction becomes practicable.

With further industrial growth assured, broadening of the city's retail merchandising field in progress, and extensive residential building awaiting only the materials and labor necessary to carry it through, Mansfield is indeed fortunate in having such capacity for leadership and direction as was evidenced in connection with the successful culmination of the airport project.

What Constitutes 'Peaceful Picketing'?

WHILE the right of "peaceful picketing" by union strikers has become fully recognized in the nation's laws, and upheld by the courts, it appears that the line of demarcation between "peaceful" and "strong-arm" picketing has not yet become fully established.

General impression of "peaceful picketing" eliminates any form of violence on the part of picketers, yet intent at violence is strongly intimated when representatives of management are prevented from entering a struck plant, as has frequently occurred.

An extreme case, however, is reported from Elizabeth, N. J., where picketers halted a United States mail truck that attempted to cross a picket line to deliver packages. According to the police, the packages, which contained foodstuffs, were forcibly taken from the truck and broken open on the street.

It may be assumed that the United States government, operator of the postal service, was within its rights in attempting to make mail delivery, even to a strike-bound plant—so it would seem reasonable that "peaceful picketing" be more clearly defined, so that its limits will not hereafter be passed by uninformed pickets.

McGregor To Tour District Soon

CONGRESSMAN M'GREGOR announces intention to pay another visit to the six counties of this district, to find out "what the folks back home are thinking about," and plans to be in Mansfield Wednesday and Thursday, July 31 and August 1.

Approach of what promises to become a lively campaign, coupled with more than ordinary public interest in matters that have been engaging the attention of congress, makes this visit particularly timely, as many people will undoubtedly take advantage of this opportunity to express their own views and hear those of their congressman on some of the problems now being faced.

Topmost among the subjects to be discussed will probably be that of suspension of OPA price controls, with inadequate housing for veterans running a close second.

Gratified by the response of constituents during past visits, Congressman McGregor looks forward to meeting an even greater number this year. "I am certain," he says, "that we all have problems of personal and national interest to discuss, which will be of mutual benefit."

Education Begets Cleanliness

THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE, which busily checks eating establishments all over the country to make sure that they're up to proper standards of cleanliness, reports that Vassar college takes first honors. Laboratory tests put the institution at the top of a list of places investigated in 450 communities in 27 states.

The virtue of thoroughness at the college seems to apply to the use of soap and hot water as well as to the pursuit of knowledge.

Human nature doesn't seem to change much—even in a few thousand years—as one of the biblical proverbs seems to neatly apply to the present situation: "It is an honor for a man to keep aloof from strife, but every fool will be quarreling."

After a man in Burlington, N. C., had been acquitted on the charge of stealing a ham the judge ordered him to return the ham—and he did.

British Papers Peeve Socialists

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

FOR UPWARDS of 300 years—ever since the abolition of the iniquitous star chamber in 1641—England has had a free press which has thundered its beliefs and likes and dislikes as an inalienable right.

This week the new Socialist government will decide whether to inaugurate a royal commission to investigate the charge that some of Britain's great newspapers have been abusing that right. This investigation has been asked by the National Union of Journalists—the demand is backed by more than 100 members of parliament.

The charges relate to the attitude of the "capitalistic" press towards the Socialist government and its program of nationalization. The socialists accuse the conservative newspapers of "suppressions, misrepresentations and inventions."

They say that labor's program isn't being truly presented.

They assert that England's great newspaper combines are monopolistic and squeeze out small competitors more friendly to Socialism. They want to know what influence "financial and advertising interests" have on the newspapers.

Some of the newspapers are extending a welcome to the investigation, saying they have nothing to conceal. The majority, however, are against it and hold with the declaration by former Prime Minister Winston Churchill that the members of government are "reaching out their hands against the freedom of the press."

If the government carries out this investigation, and bases it on generalities rather than concrete charges, it will be a very daring performance. At least that's the way it strikes your correspondent, who has lived many years in England and knows how jealous the whole country is of free speech.

A man's right to speak his piece is traditional, and you can see the demonstration of that any evening if you circulate among the many soap-box orators in London's Hyde park.

There they advocate any sort of ism they wish, frequently in language that would curl your hair and the blue-coated "Bobbies" just stand by and grin, so long as the speakers don't incite the crowds to break the law. Socialism itself got its early innings right there in Hyde park.

We shall have to await the outcome of the investigation—if there is one—before it will be clear just what its meaning is. If the investigators have any totalitarian ideas about controlling the press, then the government will have picked up a hot potato, for the English public wouldn'd stand for it.

Undoubtedly some pretty strong political talk is being bandied about in Britain these days. The Socialists are new in power and they are up against a press which in the main believes in private initiative and not in nationalization of industry.

It also is true that the great English newspapers and newspaper combines are very powerful. Britain is a snug little community and the big papers are pretty well able to blanket the whole nation.

The influence of the London Press reaches throughout the country. For example, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express is published not only in London but in other strategic cities and claims the tremendous daily circulation of 3,575,000.

Thus it's easy to understand the annoyance and concern of the Socialist government as it tries to inaugurate its new leftist program in the face of a heavy opposition by many of England's leading newspapers.

Its concern scarcely can be lessened by the knowledge that its success in the general election of last year was due in no small degree to the fact that many conservatives deserted their party and voted for the Socialists because of dissatisfaction with the conservative government. The socialists will need those votes in the next general election four years hence.

Probe of "Congressional Influence" Likely.

INFORMATION in the possession of the Mead investigating committee is likely to lead the current inquiry in a new direction which will develop a phase of the congressional influence business with even more unpleasant implications than that already aired.

This concerns the use of influence on Capitol Hill to get commissions in the army for relatives and friends of contractors with fat war contracts. Mead committee investigators have been told that this was a kind of sideline of the Garsson empire.

There have long been rumors about the generous way in which commissions were tossed out by the war department to the "right people."

A thorough investigation should develop facts that might help in another war to prevent the wholesale creation of majors and colonels who did not deserve such commissions and who contributed nothing, or less than nothing to the war effort.

It is significant, in this connection, that Representative Andrew Jackson May was always so willing as chairman of the house military affairs committee, to do the bidding of the generals. When the senate Atomic Control Bill first came to his committee, May started the move that resulted finally in the debacle on the house floor when isolationist Republicans, with the aid of Democrats such as Representative Rankin of Mississippi, tried to cut it to pieces.

And they succeeded in undoing much of the patient work of the senate atomic committee, which may or may not be rectified when members of the two houses meet in conference this week.

As the hearing wears on in the marble and crystal splendor of the caucus room in the senate office building, you can fairly hear the crackle of politics, like static, in the background. For several weeks before the investigation began, most congressmen knew through the channels of gossip what was likely to be disclosed.

Republicans were elated. They saw in this wartime scandal, and others still in the rumor stage, first-rate campaign ammunition. Nor were they eager to press at this time for a public investigation.

Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, a member of the Mead committee, made his reputation as a prosecutor. He had a very complete docket on the Garsson-May story before a word of testimony was taken. Ferguson has played closely with certain generals and with Republicans in high civilian offices in the war department. His knowledge is extensive.

Even if Chairman James M. Mead had wanted to postpone the current inquiry until after the elections this fall, he would have had no choice. To have waited would have given the opposition a chance to dribble out the information during the campaign this fall.

That would have been more telling in its political effect than the present frank facing up to sordid facts.

If Mead runs for governor of New York in the fall against Thomas E. Dewey, as now seems likely, he will have a tough race on his hands. But he will be stronger as a fearless investigator who did not hesitate to press charges that hit a member of his own party.

The way the story is being played in newspapers opposed to the Truman administration makes the political motivation pretty obvious.

What the final impact will be on May's own career is difficult to say.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THE IDEAL congressman these days is a man who votes with the party, stands well with the pressure groups and who never has had his wires tapped.

I hear that when the phone rings in some congressmen's office now they lift the receiver and say "No spik English . . . Goodby please."

Republicans are inclined to smile for the first time since Teapot Dome . . . Then they remember the bee hive they kicked up in OPA and they are not inclined to smile.

What's To Be Done If Dollars Don't Reach?

BOISE, Idaho—Inflation, as Gertrude Stein might say, is a dirty word, and to thousands of young Americans like Bob and Betty Jean Scharrer it's coming to have a definite, personal and distasteful meaning.

To the young Boise couple, it means the necessity of trying to earn two dollars where one would have done before. It means specifically the difference between butter at 52 cents a pound and butter at 85 cents a pound. It means $1.34 for two movie tickets which once cost less than a dollar.

But mainly, it means the discovery that an income of $175 a month will not match an outgo of $231—and the decision that, temporarily at least, Betty must go to work.

With three years in the air corps behind him, 23-year-old ex-sergeant Bob, who met Betty Jean while stationed at nearby Gowen field, first worked in the Veterans' administration. But it didn't pay very much and he didn't like the type of work, so soon he had landed another job as top salesman and chief clerk and windshield washer in a local service station.

"With salary and commission, I make about $175 a month," Bob said, resting for a moment between cars. "And since the same job only paid about $125 a couple or three years ago, it looked as though we ought to be able to live on it."

But the kids, who neighbors say are "serious-minded and hard-working," soon found different. Where did the money go?

Well, they pay $50 a month for their three-room furnished apartment—and feel lucky to get it.

However, fuel for the kitchen range the year round and heating in the winter costs them an average of about six dollars a month.

Then there's food. Bob and Betty Jean started out with a budget which allowed about $55 a month for groceries, some meals downtown and so on. During recent weeks, however, that expense has "just about doubled," Bob said. Okay, add $110 a month.

Since both had bought quite a few clothes before they were married, they allowed only about $25 a month in that bracket. But, they've rapidly discovered that will scarcely handle the upkeep—especially with Bob's filling station job—and makes no allowance whatever for future replacements.

Transportation also was simpler for them than many since they already owned a car. Even so, it takes about $25 a month for gas, oil and repairs.

The budget originally allowed $15 for recreation, entertainment, movies and the like—"but the price of shows has gone up lately, and we just don't go any more," Bob said. "At least not often."

There was the situation. Even by eliminating non-essentials in order to meet the increased cost of essentials, expenses still added up to about $231 a month, or $65 more than Bob was making. And, as yet, there are no increases in gas, oil or services at his station. Those prices are set at district headquarters.

"If Betty Jean hadn't gone to work, we just couldn't have made it," Bob said. "She makes about $140 a month and that gets us over the hump."

Yes, it does—but how far?

Well, on paper, it means $84 a month "over the hump"—if they don't slip over in a single bracket, if prices don't go up any more, if they don't have a moment's sickness and if there isn't a solitary emergency.

But even so, they don't carry any life insurance now, but plan to get it "as soon as we can afford it." There will be payments for that. They don't own their own furniture or their own house, and as soon as possible they want to start buying both.

Eventually, there'll be a new car to buy and new clothes for both. And, without getting personal, it wouldn't be exactly unusual if one day there were children in the family.

It isn't too bright a prospect, but the kids are working hard, hoping that, somehow or other, the dollar's value will return. Bob isn't noticeably bitter, as many veterans are, but he realizes that they're making $315 a month between them. Four years ago, he was making $240 a month at the bomber plant in Willow Run, Mich.

"We've figured out prices then and now," he said, "and the $240 would have gone half again as far then as the $315 does now. In other words, our income only goes about half as far as it would have four or five years ago!"

Was he actually in Washington Saturday, and if so why did he not vote?

Absence of Senators Irks House Members.

WASHINGTON — While the entire nation waited for congress to make up its mind on the vital question of price control, the inside fact was that the house conferees angrily walked out of one meeting in protest against the absenteeism of two senators.

One was Majority Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky who failed to show up at all for one afternoon session and left in the middle of the next day's session for a trip out of town.

Barkley's excuse for the first absence was "important business on the floor." However, when house conferees learned that the business was a silver bill and an equal rights measure, they blew up and disgustedly stalked out of the meeting.

The other absentee was lame-duck George Radcliffe of Maryland. House Chairman Brent Spence of Kentucky sharply criticized the "lack of cooperation" of the two senators, aiming his ire chiefly at Barkley, who had been counted on to spearhead the fight for senate recess on the controversial Taft "guaranteed profits" amendment and the de-control of food products.

"Here we are discussing the economy of the entire nation," caustically remarked another house spokesman. "It seems to me that this is more important than silver or an equal rights bill. We don't produce more than $25,000,000 worth of silver annually."

Taft Stands Pat.

House members walked out after OPA champions talked themselves blue trying to make Bob Taft of Ohio and other senate conferees back down on the guaranteed profits provision and food de-controls. Liberal GOP Senator Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, was expected to stand by the OPA, but he remarked:

"I intend to support the senate bill. I have no other alternative since the senate has voted for it."

Showing up the next day's meeting, Barkley promised better attendance after Spence called him to task for being AWOL.

"We can't get along without you, Alben," said his fellow Kentuckian. "I know you are aware of what is at stake here. We must agree on an OPA bill that the president will sign. I shudder to think of the indescribable train of evils that will result if we don't."

Capital Chaff.

Foreign investors in the USA have started a flight from the dollar. As a result of the senat's OPA action, they figure on real inflation and are selling out their stocks and commodities. Tip-off is the way the Swedish krona, Swiss franc and Canadian dollar all have gone up at the expense of the dollar . . . One of the country's most interesting veterans' races will take place in Texas this week between Price Daniel, an ex-GI, and Pat Neff, jr., an ex-major, both running for attorney general. Daniel resigned as speaker of the Texas legislature to enlist as a private, served overseas, came out a sergeant. Neff, son of a former governor, joined up as a captain, served in the judge advocate general's office in Washington, came out a major. It will be interesting to see whether the major or the sergeant wins out.

Native Deplores Plight of Georgia.

ATLANTA — This is the sad story of a native who came back home hoping and expecting to see the people smack down Gene Talmadge, our local demagogue, who has blackened the name of the state all over the nation some time back and dared to try it again.

He left Georgia in a deplorable condition when he retired after Ellis Arnall had defeated him for governor three and a half years ago. He had nearly wrecked the State university, our oldest chartered state university, which held so many pleasant associations for so many of us.

This, and a number of other things, gave many Georgians a grievance against Mr. Talmadge—those who had stayed here and those who had gone away, like myself.

But Gov. Arnall had changed things and we thought we were rid of Gene Talmadge. Again people could call us "Georgians" and not have to smile when they said it.

The Georgian who came back could be proud of what he found. The state's financial affairs were in excellent shape. All the sorry Talmadge mess had been cleaned up. The poll tax had been repealed. The voting age had been lowered to 18. Bright youngsters were taking an interest in public affairs, and preparing, hopefully, to cast their first votes. Negroes were going to vote in a state-wide primary for the first time in half a century.

Our people just couldn't lose this fight for progress and decent government. It didn't seem possible.

The negro voting interested me. So early on election day I started out to see it. Alone I went first to a polling place back of the State capitol, a community center. There, Negroes and whites were going in togethee to vote, mingled and in a single line. I felt proud to see it.

Later, through the kindness of the Atlanta Constitution, I joined reporters and a photographer for a tour of the polling places. We went first to the Negro university center. For a half mile the line of Negroes stretched away from the Negro public school, waiting to cast their ballots.

What impressed me was the dignity and orderliness of these citizens. This was a time when a little hilarity, even rowdiness might have been forgivable. But not a bit of it.

They were taking their new responsibility seriously and solemnly. It was inspiring. Later we visited polling places where both whites and Negroes were voting. It was most orderly.

After dinner with a friend, we went to the Constitution office. It was midnight. As soon as we got off the elevator to face that familiar city-room mob scene of an election night, we knew that something was wrong. It was in the air.

"What about the election?" I asked one of the staff, knowing the answer already.

"Talmadge has won."

I had a sick feeling all over. This bit of personal experience is told because it reflects the feelings of so many people in Georgia who were sick at heart over what happened. Their candidate, Jimmy Carmichael, got the most votes, but he had lost through the antique county unit system explained here previously.

But don't give us back to the Confederacy yet. There'll be another day.

Farmer's Diary: "Beneath the Surface."

WHILE the soil was still moist, we dug some fifty postholes around a little field of clover. The work was simple—three feet in depth for corner posts and a little less for those along the regular line.

Down at the farther end, near the brook, something unusual occurred. There, as the older boy sank the short blades of the digger down beyond a foot, he suddenly came to a layer of real fine sand, like that along the creek. It lacked the usual clay in its mixture, so that only a shovel could lift it out.

Six inches of this layer; then below it, two inches of round pebbles from the size of peas to small marbles, smooth as though recently polished. The smaller boys gathered up large white ones and stored them in their pockets for marble playing.

Curious as to what would follow, we hurriedly dug still deeper. Here was a ten-inch vein of real fine clay, mixed with a conglomerate of sand. It was like soft porous rock. For sometime we bumped against this until it finally broke, in large thick chunks. The stuff would not stay on the tip of the shovel, so one boy at a time lay on the wet grassy surface and reached down to pick out the loosened hardpan.

First was a curious looking piece . . . dark brown, with hard round pebbles pressed all through it. Some were white like flint, others like granite fragments, partially polished. Many broken parts were much the same, but when we reached the bottom, there were small shells of animals that resembled the labyrinths of snails, only these showed many variations. Some were long and spiral like a gimlet, some were triangular in form. The very substance of the shells themselves was present.

We dug deeper than was necessary for the post, without tiring, so anxious were we to find something new. But what remained were only layers of round granite pieces, soft blue clay rock, sandstone and gravel. One boy, excited, suggested if we went on a bit we might find gold. Another gathered small fossils and put them in his pocket.

All afternoon, as we worked, the young boys' minds returned to that interesting hole down by the rill. When evening came, and we went back home that way, we were surprised to see four holes on equal level filled more than half full of water, but the deeper one, with all those fossils, was almost dry.

So we talked about water levels . . . and what might happen if we scooped the ground from our pond and disturbed the hardpan layer so that the water would all seep through the gravel layer and flow somewhere beneath the creek level.

We went back over the centuries to the time when the great ice rivers descended over our land from the north, laden with all kinds and sizes of rock and clay. When this melted, it left great irregular heaps—gravel pits in every valley. The water—the land—the sun—the air—"sermons in stones, and good in everything." It seemed we had reviewed Creation.

"Soothsayers" Take Look At Future.

WASHINGTON—It now seems likely that some sort of price control measure, however jerry-built, will emerge from the present mess. Yet even if, as is expected, the president signs a compromise bill which divides the pricing authority between a vestigial OPA, a decontrol board, and Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson (whose enthusiasm for price control it would be difficult to underestimate) the danger of inflation will by no means have ended.

With the strongest measure the most enthusiastic price controller could devise, it would be no easy task to clamp controls back on farmers and businessmen who have tasted the sweet delights of the free market.

It is this which makes so interesting the conclusions reached at a recent series of three meetings,

Walter Lippman will be on vacation for several weeks, during which time Stewart Alsop, popular writer on national topics, will substitute for him.

attended by a special elite of government economists, who met to peer into what a future without price controls, or with ineffective price controls, might mean.

Shape of the Future.

It does not require the memory of an elephant to know that the government economists are capable of error. Yet their influence in the government, though largely unrecognized, is still vast: as certain Roman emperors, dizzied by the complex business of running the empire, came to rely on their favorite soothsayers, so the top men of the American government turn to the economists for a glimpse of the future.

If the economists have sometimes been wrong, they have more often been right. And what makes the conclusions reached at the series of three meetings worth pondering is the fact that all the men saw the shape of the future, within certain broad limits, in much the same way.

Moreover, some of the best technical minds in the government were represented. Among those attending the meetings were Jacob Mosak and Walter Salant of the Office of Economic Stabilization, Donald Wallace and Richard Hefelbower of OPA, Joseph Mehen and Louis Paradise of Commerce, Richard Bissell, Everett Hagen and William Remington of OWMR, and Arthur Smithies of the Bureau of the Budget.

All the men agreed (and their predictions are already being painfully substantiated) that there would be sharp rises right away in the basic agricultural commodities, where the market is most free.

But in what in the economists' lingo is called "the administered industries"—those in which a small group of managers determine prices—there would be a sort of breathing space, a few weeks of hesitation while the managers sized up the markets.

Then, whether from cupidity or necessity, prices in these industries too would begin to go up in earnest. By November, it is of political interest to note, consumers should begin to feel the pinch in no uncertain manner.

The Bubble Will Burst.

It is particularly interesting that none of the men foresaw really catastrophic inflation on the continental scale: it is a relief to know that some of the horror stories which have been circulating are probably exaggerated.

The dollar will be worth less, but at least bills on the street will not increase the work load of street cleaners.

Estimates (or rather informed guesses) of the peak of inflation ranged between 25% and 50% above the present cost of living. Some of the men believed that this peak would be reached early in the spring of 1947, while others did not believe that it would come until next Autumn. But they all expected that some time next year the bubble would burst. They were sure that the collapse would not be another 1929, but would be temporary, and probably would not last for more than a year. Beyond that, none of the economists cared to commit themselves. The upswing might last a long time. Then again it might not.

Center of the Crisis.

As to what might happen under a weak compromise bill, which the president might reluctantly sign, there was less unanimity. Some optimists believed that if OPA were restored, something close to the recent price line could be regained and held without major bulges.

Others were more skeptical, pointed to the difficulties of administration and of re-imposing controls, and stated their opinion that the difference between OPA and no OPA was a matter of degree; OPA was a sort of tentative insurance, no sure thing but a fairly good bet.

But all the men were agreed that reasonably strong price control was the only possible hope for avoiding another great wave of strikes.

That is the center of the price control crisis, as CIO President Philip Murray has made abundantly clear. All the economists foresee the shape of the future in much the same way.

What they see is not encouraging, but on the face of it, it does not spell catastrophe.

Painful as it might be, the economy of the country could survive the kind of moderate inflation which the economists predict in a future without strong price control.

But if the cost of living rises steeply there will surely be strikes, as bitter and prolonged as those of last winter. The question is whether the scars left by yet another wave of strikes, following so close on the last, would ever really heal.

This country has never been so deeply divided politically as many European countries have been. But another great series of strikes might well create such a bitter division.

Shadow of 'Big 4' Hangs Over Coming Paris Peace Conference

21-Nation Parley Won't Write Treaties, Nor Sign Them.

By SIGRID ARNE
(First of Two Articles)

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The so-called "peace conference," which 21 nations will attend in Paris on July 29, is not a peace conference in the exact meaning of the Versailles conference, which wrote the treaties after World War I.

It is different in two important ways:

1. It won't write the original drafts of the treaties. That has already been done by the Big Four (the United States, the United Kingdom, Russia and France) at the meetings of the foreign ministers which Secretary of State Byrnes has been attending the past several months. At Versailles, on the contrary, where 32 nations met, the work of treaty writing was done from the start with all the nations present, although, even there, the Big Four of that day (Great Britain, France, Italy and the U. S.) did a good deal of private conferring. However, the other nations were in on the ground floor.

2. This meeting won't even write the final drafts of the treaties, as the Versailles conference did. This time the Big Four will do the final writing, after listening to what the other 17 nations have to say.

3. And the treaties—for Finland, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Italy—don't even need the signatures of the 17 "other" nations invited to Paris. They will go into effect when they have been signed by the nations which wrote the armistice terms, the Big Four. The other 17 will only be invited to sign.

Big Powers Run Show.

Experts agree that this treaty machinery is the same in principle as that governing the United Nations' affairs—the big powers run the show, and just keep a war eye on the opinion of the other nations.

Here are the steps which have brought the war-wrecked Axis satellites to the threshold of treaty signing—and the steps are important, since out of them evolved the inner circle which seems to be drawing the broad lines of Europe's future:

1. The victorious ally which pushed into a conquered country first wrote the "armistice terms"—the rules under which the conquered areas live until treaties are written. For example, the United States and United Kingdom wrote the Italian armistice. Russia wrote armistice terms for Finland and the Balkans. In each case all three signed what the others had authored. Finland's terms were signed only by Russia and the United Kingdom since the U. S. was not at war with that nation. And France, which wrote none of the armistice terms, was, however, invited in on the Italian deal.

2. When the war dust settled the Big Four foreign ministers met to iron out what they wanted. The meeting had been agreed on at Potsdam, when the Big Four leaders—Truman, Attlee, Stalin and Bidault—met there at the war's end. This council is quite outside the regular United Nations machinery.

3. Now the Big Four ministers have agreed to submit their treaty texts to 17 other nations, chosen by the U. S., U. K., and Russia because they contributed most to defeating the Axis.

Those that will attend in addition to the Big Four, are: China, Australia, Belgium, Byelo-Russia, Brazil, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Ethiopia, Greece, India, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, the Union of South Africa, Yugoslavia, and the Ukraine.

4. But, as was said, only the Big Four need sign the treaties to make them stick.

5. After the 21 nations finish the Paris talks, the Big Four will go off into another huddle and write the final treaties. They can but they don't have to include whatever revisions the "other" 17 may suggest.

It's more or less likely there will be plenty of pressure from the other 17 at Paris. Dr H. V. Evatt, the Australian foreign minister, has already protested the "undemocratic" treaty method. He has been the consistent fighter, within the United Nations, for the rights of the small countries.

The Paris conference will leave untouched decisions on four world areas for which no treaties are yet prepared: Germany, Japan, Korea and Austria.

Here's what seems ahead for them: The U. S. has been pushing a plan to unify Germany's economic life, and at the same time, for a Big Four agreement to occupy the country 25 years. Russia has objected. Britain and France agree. Pulling and hauling for some time seems certain.

Japan must wait until the nations bordering the Pacific get together. The date is not even talked of yet, although there is an eleven-nation far eastern commission now working in Washington on occupation policy.

The U. S. is also pushing for an Austrian treaty. We wanted it on the Paris program, but Russia balked. So Austria's future hangs fire.

Korea's future seems the furthest from settlement. State department papers mention discussion "up to five years" off.

Even when the five treaties are signed some Allied troops will still remain as occupation forces—Big Four troops in Germany, Russians and Americans in Austria, and Rusians in Rumania and Hungary.

New Sohio Motor Oil with Pentosul gives you 100% Increased Factor of Safety

Your car is safe!

Here is a big step forward in engine protection—Pentosul, discovered by Sohio research. Pentosul (protected by 10 U. S. patents and other U. S. and Canadian patents pending) is added to Sohio Motor Oil, giving you greater engine protection than ever before!

Tests show Pentosul increases the Safety Factor of Sohio Motor Oil 100%. It has doubled the "staying power" of prewar Sohio Motor Oil—and that oil was the 1st choice of Ohio car owners!

In addition, you get free-working pistons and rings . . . longer bearing life . . . wide-open oil lines—and that, too, adds up to increased power, longer engine life, less danger of repair bills. Change to New Sohio Motor Oil with Pentosul—at Sohio Dealers and Service Stations. Its extra protection doesn't cost you one penny extra! Many motorists can really save money.—The Standard Oil Co.
